Note: These are available for sale in the UM bookstore and for purchase online through Amazon. There are also ebook options for purchase that are considerably cheaper than the print copies (and better for the environment!). See our Moodle course page for links.

Description: Music 301 is an historical survey of Western art music from Antiquity through the Baroque. The course will introduce you to the representative composers, musical forms and styles of these periods, and you'll learn how music has changed to adapt to the expectations of past cultures and societies. You also learn how music has influenced and expressed important social, economic, and political ideas critical to the development of Western culture. This course fulfills the General Education requirement for Historical and Cultural Studies.

Student Learning Outcomes:

- 1) Improved listening skills: you should be able to aurally identify historical musical styles, genres, forms, and the works of specific composers.
- 2) An understanding of how important historical forces—economic, social, political, and cultural—shaped the development of Western Art Music
- 3) An understanding of how historical musical practices might inform your own musical performances and creative projects
- 4) You'll be introduced to ways music historians use sources (primary and secondary) to write about and interpret music history.

Academic Misconduct and the Student Conduct Code

All students must practice academic honesty. Academic misconduct is subject to an academic penalty by the course instructor and/or disciplinary sanction by the University. All students need to be familiar with the Student Conduct Code. The Code is available for review online at www.umt.edu/SA/VPSA/Index.cfm/page/1321.
